Description

This error reports back on the fix made in BR-021. The 10 minute cooldown alert appears without informing the user that they have failed the quiz. It says the lockdown will provide time to review the questions but doesn't present the questions until the next screen. User needs to be informed they have failed and about the 10 minute lockdown and also be presented with the questions to review, of course without the ability to make changes. When the time has elapsed, the user needs to be prompted to re-try the quiz
